Good evening! How do you like your teacher?

A COOL WELCOME.

Is there no feeling of brotherhood among motorists? Do the auto owners of one town look with suspicion upon those from other towns? What explanation can be made relative to the coolness of the reception the Altoona motorists were given on their run to Clearfield Wednesday? Several scores of the best people of the railroad city came to this city for the purpose of enjoying an outing and partaking of the boasted hospitality
of the people of Clearfield, and when these Altoona motorists reached town
they found not a single local autoist to welcome them.

This neglect may have resulted from a misunderstanding on the part of Clearfield motorists as to the time of arrival of the Altoona people, but did it? We do not like to think that auto owners of Clearfield, who are so liberal with their dust when
out for a spin, refrained from talking part in welcoming the visitors
from the fear that it would cost something to entertain the guests. We would also be sorry to learn that it was through lack of energy on part of the local speedsters that they failed to do the honors to the Altoona motorists. We prefer to think that the Clearfield motorists mislaid their engagement memos or forgot the date of the run.

Those were pretty nice people who journeyed to Clearfield from Blair county to see Clearfield and meet her people. What they thought of the town itself can be guessed, but what they thought and said of the frigid reception they got wouldn't be printed in this paper at ten dollars a line.

Clearfield motorists are conservative, which means that they can see nothing lovable or commendatory in people except when they look in their mirrors. Conservatism wears off gradually, and when the Altoona club motors to this city in 1937 they will be received with much more warmth
than was noticeable on Wednesday.

HUNTER'S LICENSES.

Extracts from the new act of assembly anent hunters licenses, printed in this paper Wednesday, will give the nitmuds of Clearfield county
some of the trials and tribulations
which await them when the season for killing game opens. The procuring of a license and the wearing of a tag
of identification are but beginnings of hunter's ordeal. To get license the hunter must tell whether he is black or white how tall he is and a few other things which are required
in order that men of Pa. Sackett's build may not be mistaken for one of Ashley Thorpe's avardspots.

When a party of two or three hundred hunters start out from Clearfield next month decorated with tags
neatly numbered, there will be a crowd
of citizens at the lower bridge to jeer
and revile them. As they tramp through the woods with the numbers conspicuously tacked to their coat sleeves they will no doubt feel like
 inmates of those state institutions
in which names are forgotten and
numbers are used to designate the

occupants of the iron barred rooms.
But hunters should not complain.
The legislature might have made it much more unpleasant for them. The law might have required that each hunter should wear a tag ten feet by twelve feet, painted or printed in red
on a white surface. It might have demanded that the hunter should tell more of his private affairs than the
act now does—Whether or not he
is divorced from his wife, whether or not he is fond of scrapple, whether or not he enjoys visits from his mother-in-law, whether or not he stays
out late at night and other information which would have been useful in identifying him should he fall a victim to some careless gun toter.
The hunter ought to be glad he gets
off so easily.

The earnest women who are attending the annual convention of the Clearfield county W. C. T. U. are deserving of a hearing from the public.

Parents and teachers in Clearfield should get together and solve such problems as come before them.

Another week almost past and no
war with Mexico. Are the jingoists hedging?

The Pennsylvania Motor association's state convention, to have been held at Harrisburg was postponed until September 18th. The association will plan to boost the fifty million dollar bond issue, but it is likely to have heard slandering, judging from statements of farmers. If the association were to persuade all motorists to run their machines in a careful manner when on the high ways the farmers would gladly vote
in favor of the bond issue.

If you are not in the judgeship fight
you might as well be buried out in the Gum swamp.

Campaigns of education should be carried on every day of the year
in counties where the voters are unable to understand plain and simple provisions of the election laws.

Judges in various parts of the state
have declared the non-partisan primary law constitutional, and voters
are now assured that they will not lose their votes if they cast their ballots at the primaries for non partisan candidates for judge.

OSCEOLA MILLS.

Labor day in Osceola found a great many strangers in town. All places of business were closed except meat markets, hotels and barber shop. Our correspondent has been requested to announce through this paper that hereafter the other barber shops will also be open on holidays.

The band under direction of Prof.
Samuel Oldham discoursed some very nice music on Labor day much to the gratification of the many strangers.

An automobile ran over a small Italian lad on Saturday morning
which is evidence that council is very dilatatory in enforcing the speed law.
They (council) will be up against a damage suit the first thing they know.

Wonder if the two damsels from near town found husbands on Labor day, as they had their ad out in the shape of a long streamer over their shoulders.

The firemen were called out last Friday night at 12 o'clock by the tooting of the engine at the round house. A dwelling occupied by Joe Rescosky was on fire, loss small.

Thomas Kelly, of New York accompanied his wife home Monday, who had been visiting her father and mother, Mr and Mrs Michael Brick-
ley, the past four weeks.

Hirsh, the assistant supervisor has been transferred to Wilmington, Del.
and will be succeeded here by a
Mr Duke, of Tyrone.

Osceola was the mecca for candidates Monday. Guppy, Crago, Mc-Closky and Mitchell were seen circling through the large crowd which was enjoying itself by blowing tin horns, throwing confetti, etc.
Harry McCoy, a well young man died on Friday of pneumonia. Home leaves to mourn his loss untimely death two sisters three brothers, his mother and wife and young son. The funeral was held Sunday, services at the home. Interment was made in Umbria cemetery.

THAW LOSES HIS FIGHT IN CANADA

Writ Granted Permitting Immediate Deportation.

REAL FIGHT IN VERMONT.

Prisoner Realized That His Battle
Was Nearly Over and Was Much Depressed—Case of Chauffeur Thompson Postponed For Another Week.
Auto Dash to New York Planned.

Sherbrooke, Que., Sept. 4—The ha-bens corpus writ in the Thaw case has been sustained. This is a defeat for Thaw. It was planned to reject him from the Sherbrooke jail, and immigration officials were prepared to arrest
him for deportation.

New York officials were ready to take Thaw in custody as soon as he crossed the line and entered the United States. The fight will now be transferred to Vermont, where the fugitive
will fight extradition unless he is immediately brought to New York state.

Educated Roger Thompson chauffeur for Thaw must linger in Sherbrooke at least another week under $500 bail before he stands trial on the double charge of having violated the Dominion immigration laws by crossing the border "by stealth" and in so doing assisting an undesirable (Thaw)
to enter Canada.

His case came before Magistrate Mureau, and with the consent of both sides was put over. Thompson's lawyers, in reality Thaw's lawyers, are in the meantime collecting data to prove Thompson's claim that he was born in Toronto and was never naturalized in the United States. With this established he will be subject to a $500 fine or to three months' imprisonment, but could not be deported.

Roger's chief desire now is to get back to Broadway, but he can't so long as an indictment hangs over him charging him with conspiring with others to liberate Thaw.

Decision on Thaw's Writ.

Thaw expects to be thrust out of his haven the Sherbrooke jail, by the decision and is packing up his personal effects preparatory to departure.

He looks forward to the real fight for liberty in Vermont, despite the fact that Former District Attorney William Travers Jerome hopes to whisk him
across that state in an automobile and land him back in Matteawan without giving him a chance to claim what ever legal rights he might have in Vermont.

The prisoner is more depressed than
he has been at any time since his arrival in Canada. The statement by the special representative of the premier
of Quebec, Sir Lomer Gouin, that "the scandal must be ended" has knocked
the props from Thaw's hope of delay
or victory in the Dominion.

DEATH LIST NOW 21.

All Except One Have Been Identified.

Wreckage Burned In Face of Orders of Interstate Commerce Commission Resumption of Examination of Engineers and Trainmen of White Mountain and Bar Harbor Expresses Coroner's Inquest—Federal Inquiry to Follow Soon.

Coroner Mix announced the inquest would be held in secret. Preliminary hearings, a finding in secret at the railroad offices. Crews of both trains were examined. Chief Inspector B. K. B. Inquest of the interstate commerce commission early in New Haven depicting the railroad company a burning the wreckage.

New Haven Conn. Sept 4. The day after the railway wreck on the New York, New Haven and Hartford road between here and Wallingford found the death list standing at twenty one and the hospital list of injured at seventeen, the trainmen under detention by the coroner's order and the machinery for county, state and federal investigations in motion.

Coroner Mix and the chief engineer of the public utilities commission of Connecticut Mr. Elwell, resumed the investigation jointly with the railroad company August B. Miller, engineer of the first section of the White Mountain express, told more of the circumstances under which his train crashed into the standing Bar Harbor express. Elbert A. Robertson, his fireman, Bruce B. Adams, conductor of the Bar Harbor train, and Charles Henry Murray, the flagman sent back to prevent a rear end collision, were also under examination.

What these men testified to reached the public by way of the press agent for the New Haven road. The hearing was held in the office of General Manager Bardo. The coroner had nothing to say at its conclusion and gave orders that the witnesses were not to be interviewed. Mr. Elwell was equally reticent. The trainmen refused to talk, but a statement purporting to be a synopsis of their testimony was prepared and issued by the railroad company.

The Railroad Version.
"Testimony of men in charge of the train" reads this statement "shows plainly that the equipment, appliances and signals of the railroad were in first class condition."

Murray, the flagman according to this statement, was sent back to flag the following train when the Bar Harbor train came to a stop in front of the red bullseye in bang signal 23 at Tolles Rest. In conformance with the rules, the engineer, Wands, started his train again after stopping it and passed the danger signal at slow speed. Murray was recalled by a blast from the locomotive. The conductor, Adams, stopped the train to wait for him after it had cleared the danger signal by perhaps fifty feet.

Running back through the heavy fog, Murray heard the oncoming White Mountain express and placed two tor-

WALL COLLAPSES
AT BIG STORESerious Accident at Leitzinger
Brothers' Establishment

THE COMMUNITY STARTLED

The Wall Topples Outward and Brick and Other Material Fall Into Excavation for New Building—None of the Goods Damaged and Nobody Injured.

Shortly before 10 o'clock Wednesday evening people living in the central part of the city were startled by a roaring sound resembling the noise made by a large lot of snow sliding from a roof. An investigation proved that the noise had been made by the collapse of the rear wall of the annex to the Leitzinger store, the brick wall falling with a crash into the deep excavation which had been about completed in preparation for the erection of the new addition to the store building.

A Complete Wreck.

The wall is a complete wreck, only small portions of the wall at the upper corner remaining, brick, timbers and other materials falling into the excavation.

The wall fell outward and the shelving behind it toppling inward, so that none of the goods in that part of the store were damaged or lost. In falling the wall broke a water main in the well, and in a short time nearly two feet of water had risen in the excavation. This helped to weaken the sides of the hole.

Big Girder Falls.

One of the big girders on the first floor, deprived of its support, fell to the floor. In daytime the space in which this girder fell is generally occupied by a number of people, and had the accident taken place in daytime several persons would undoubtedly have been killed or badly hurt.

The annex is only two stories high and when the wall fell the rear of this part of the store was fully exposed to view from the alley.

Had Been In Store.

Ed Leitzinger, senior member of the firm, had been in the store in the evening after the usual closing time. He was in the basement not much more than ten minutes prior to the collapse of the wall, leaving for his home in his car. He had hardly reached his home and put the car away until he was told of the disaster. Had he been in the basement when the wall fell he might have been seriously injured.

Cause of Accident.

The ground in which the well had been made is part of an old river bottom, composed principally of sandy loam. It is supposed that the workmen had dug too close to the building and the support of the wall had been weakened and the foundation gradually gave way, letting the well down.

It was fortunate that the wall fell at night, for if the accident had taken place in daytime workmen would have been in the well and some of them would have been caught by the debris.

A Costly Accident.

To repair the damage done to the building will cost considerable money. Workmen were early on the ground this morning putting up supports to hold up the floors and roof, and Contractor Lukins is clearing away the debris which fills the well.

It will require several days to remove the brick and other material from the well and to get the excavation in shape for the concrete. Hundreds of citizens viewed the wrecked wall last night and today everybody expressing satisfaction that, although the loss is severe, no person was injured.

Ysaie's Lost "Strad."

Of fiddles lost, stolen or strayed the most notable instance within recent times is the disappearance of the violin belonging to the great player Ysaie. It was a Stradivarius, made in 1732, and one of the violins shown in the loan collection of musical instruments at South Kensington in 1885. It was the practice of Ysaie, as of every other great player, to carry with him two violins, so that in case of accident he might have one to fall back upon. The stolen one was left unattended in the artist's room below the orchestra. It vanished, and in consequence of the loss and cry that resulted the instrument has never come to light again. Nor can the possessor of such a violin bring it to light while the present generation of experts is alive, for infallibly it would be recognized.—St. James' Gazette.

¶ The primary election will be held Tuesday, September 16th.

¶ There will be two separate tickets to be voted at the primaries - the non-partisan judiciary ticket and the partisan ballot on which candidates for county, borough and township offices will have their names.

¶ If a voter is enrolled he can vote both tickets, but if he is not enrolled he can vote only the non-partisan judge ballot.

¶ Candidates for the judiciary are not identified by party titles, hence the voter is not voting against his own party by voting for any of the judicial candidates, no matter who that candidate may be.

¶ Voting for a candidate for judge does not bind the voter to anything more than his act at the primaries, and does not affect his standing as a Washington, Republican or Democratic voter.

¶ The voter who supports a judicial candidate at the primaries cannot be deprived of his right to vote for his own party candidates at the November election.

¶ Party lines are not drawn in the non-partisan contest for judicial nominations, and the voter may vote for any of the judicial candidates without regarding himself unfaithful to the political party of his choice.

Two Ways of Telling a Story, One of Which Pointed a Moral.

Two men entered a train at a small station out west and took seats facing an elderly gentleman. They fell to telling hunting stories with great animation and many, many oaths.

Noticing that the old gentleman was an interested listener, one of the men spoke to him and asked whether he, too, was not a hunter, with a story or two worth hearing.

The told gentleman thought he could tell one, and this is what he said:

"One day I thought I would go hunting, so I took my tin pan tinner box gun and went up into tin pan tinner box woods on the side of a tin pan tinner box mountain, and I waited a tin pan tinner box long time; and then I saw a tin pan tinner box fine buck coming toward me, so I put my tin pan tinner box gun to my shoulder and fired. And that tin pan tinner box buck fell right in its tin pan tinner box tracks, and it was the finest tin pan tinner box buck I ever killed." After a pause he said, "How do you like my story?"

"Oh, the story is all right, but I don't see what all that 'tin pan tinner box' has to do with it."

"Well," replied the old gentleman, "that is just my way of swearing."

"I don't see much sense in swearing that way," said the other, with manifest disgust.

To which the old gentleman responded, "There is as much sense in my way of swearing as there is in yours, young man."—Youth's Companion.

Lambeth Palace library was founded about the beginning of the seventeenth century by philanthropic Archbishop Bancroft, and has been enriched by several of his successors. It now contains over 30,000 volumes, many of great rarity, besides a vast number of important manuscripts. Among the celebrated scholars who have had charge of this library was John Richard Green, the historian. He welcomed the change from an east end vicarage, because it set him free to pursue his historical researches. "The quiet of the Lambeth library," he wrote to his friend, Boyd Dawkins, "is like still waters after the noise of the east. PANTRY ROBBED IN
MIDNIGHT HOURSBorough Engineer Hess Loses Provisions Last Night

Sometime Wednesday night, while honest people were abed, a sneak thief entered the pantry at the home of E. W. Hess, civil engineer, at 409 Locust street, and with malice aforethought extracted a quantity of provisions from the same.

The thief carried with him a small hatchet, which he dropped in his retreat from the scene of his depredation. A dozen of real fresh eggs in a paper sack were found in the yard, having evidently been forgotten by the midnight marauder in his haste.

It is thought that the robber was frightened away by some noise, either in the house or on the street.

This is the first robbery of this nature that has taken place in Clearfield in years, and householders are warned to be on their guard. The police might also be watchful of strangers who wear hungry looks and do not show signs of having the price.

NOW ON WAY TO COUNTY JAIL

Sheriff Gets Word of Huff's Movement and Directs State Police to Arrest Him—Taken to DuBois, From Which Place He Will Be Brought Here.

Sheriff Woolridge, shortly after noon today, received news of the capture of Frank Huff, who, on Tuesday evening shot and mortally wounded his wife at Penfield.

Word was received this morning that Huff had been seen at Caledonia, and the sheriff directed one of the state constables at Penfield to get Huff.

Caught at Caledonia.

The constable secured an auto and went to Caledonia, where he had little trouble in finding Huff and arrested him, starting at once for DuBois, from which place the prisoner will be brought to the county jail sometime this afternoon.

The DuBois Hospital reports that Mrs. Huff, the wounded woman is very restless. Her recovery from her wounds is still in doubt.

Glass Cutting.

The layman who is introduced to the mysteries of cutting glass for the first time is amazed at the amount of work that the workman does entirely by his eye. The first stage of the bowl which is to be cut finds it in a perfectly plain condition, not a scratch upon it and only a half dozen or more marks in red chalk, which mean absolutely nothing to the unpracticed eye. But to the workman they mean the whole pattern. Perhaps the dish is a salad bowl. The marks in chalk will run from the edge, five intervals apart, down to the center of the bowl at the bottom. In one of the divisions of the bowl thus marked there may be a little further marking in the shape perhaps of a diamond. This indicates the pattern into which the bowl is to be cut, and it will be repeated in each of the five divisions. All the intricacies of the design the workman has in his head, and they develop on the glass in a way which seems to the looker on absolutely marvelous.—New York Times.

Witch Burnings.

There are countries in which the execution of women as witches is only a thing of yesterday. The last instance of witch burning occurred as recently as 1888 in Peru, and in other parts of South America cases continued to occur until well into the second half of the nineteenth century. England's own last conviction for witchcraft took place at Hertford in 1712, and Scotland condemned a witch ten years later, while Spain and Germany retained a judicial belief in witches and the justice of killing them until 1782 and 1794.

HAZARD MURRAY
ON JUDICIARYQuestions Sincerity of Judge
Smith's License Position

SAYS HOTELS VIOLATE LAW

Attacks His Record as a Trial Judge and Claims That Expenses of County Have Been Greater Under Him Than Under Any Jurist—Charges Tyranny.

I desire to here state the truth about Judge Smith's administration during the past ten years, his candidacy for reelection for another ten years and my reason for not again voting for him. I will give you the facts and not my conclusions. To do this rightly will consume more space than a letter published a while ago by a gentleman who is personally favorable to Judge Smith because this article does contain facts and because I have seldom appeared for publication and have a limited experience in this class of work. I have had the experience of a close and continuous association with Judge Smith's entire administration and have acquired a full knowledge of what I here write, both by reason of being an active practitioner and counselor before his Court and also because of a careful and correct observation of his conduct, both in cases I have tried as well as in those I have not been connected with.

Much has been said about Judge Smith and his liquor license art. While this court is but a branch of his great power and a small part of a Judge's work, occupying about one day a year of his time, yet it is a matter of grave importance to the people of this county especially to the women and children and young boys as well as to the men. In the license court a Judge is the supreme power and there is no appeal, except for misconduct. He is the first and last place of resort. He can inform himself of any fact outside of court as well as in court by inquiry or by personal examination and in this jurisdiction differs from that of any other subject matter that may come before him, because in other matters he can only take knowledge of such facts as are presented to him in court. Often in license court the ones who are most concerned are not there and are not represented because of frailty, timidity or modesty or lack of money. For these reasons while the work of a Judge in the license court may not be long or arduous, yet he owes to the people a great duty. It is at this time, if at any time, that he should be their champion and their defender. The test of whether he is fair to the people in the license court is not that some of the hotels or hotelkeepers in this county have been improved, but rather whether the people of this county have been protected and their interests and the interests of their homes preserved and the law enforced. A Judge may say the Brooks Law authorizes him to grant a license and permit the sale of liquor. That same law, however, provides that for any violation of the Brooks Law a license may be revoked by that same Judge, or if a rule made by a Judge is violated that Judge may revoke that license. The Brooks Law also prohibits the sale of liquor to men of known intemperate habits or men visibly affected by intoxicating drinks or the furnishing of liquor to boys under 21 years of age. You know and I know both by observation and experience, but worse than this Judge Smith knows that there is not a hotel in this town or in the county that is not violating either one or all of these laws and Judge Smith could revoke their licenses for such violations. Judge Smith made many rules when he first went on the bench with the supposed intention to at least regulate the sale of liquor. How many of those rules are in force today. For example, he made a rule that liquor could not be sold by the bottle. What about that rule now? There is not a hotel in the county that is not selling liquor by the bottle. He made a rule that politics could not be discussed in the bar-room, yet in the bar-rooms of this county you can hear some of his very best men boosting his campaign. He could revoke the licenses of any of these innkeepers for a violation of any of his rules. I am not a reformer, nor ambitious for reputation, but I do have sufficient character and insight to see the rottenness of a campaign that will wheedle a highly reputable man, who is not informed correctly, either by experience or observation of the actual conditions of the license court and liquor traffic of the county and so far mislead him into writing an article for publication not only defending but commending the conduct of a Judge when that

A SKELETON IN THE CLOSET.

Tragic Story of the Origin of the Familiar Expression.

"A skeleton in the cupboard" is a familiar expression which has a tragic origin. The story is that a certain widow in England had a son in India, but owing to his failing health his mother became very anxious for his return. One day she received a letter from him containing the strange request that she should find some one who had no cure or trouble and ask her to make six shirts for him.

Anxious to accede to his wishes, the mother hunted long and finally found a lady who apparently fulfilled the condition. The lady listened in silence to the request and then invited the widow into her bedroom, and there she opened a cupboard, which contained a human skeleton.

"Madam," she said, "I endeavor to keep my trouble to myself, but every night my husband compels me to show that skeleton, which was once his rival, whom he killed in a duel many years ago. Think you that I am happy?"

Then the mother wrote to her son of the fruitless errand, and his reply was: "I knew when I gave you the commission that every one had his case, and you, mother, must have yours. Know, then, that I am condemned to death and can never return to England. Mother, mother, there is a skeleton in every house!"

VICE CONSUL FLEES

Heed Wilson's Warning.

San Francisco, Sept. 4.—More than half of the 120 passengers who arrived on the Pacific Mail liner City of Para from south coast ports were refugees from Mexico, who brought new stories of murder and pillage.

J. C. Ingram, who was United States vice consul at La Paz, arrived with his family. He said that, while there had been no fighting at La Paz, conditions were unsettled and Americans should heed President Wilson's warning and get out as quickly as they could obtain transportation.

A majority of the refugees who were interviewed expressed the belief that intervention would mean massacres of Americans forced to remain in Mexico. They contradicted reports that a wave of patriotism and adherence to Mexico was sweeping over the country.

When the City of Para sailed from Mazatlan a week ago it had to leave behind more than 100 Americans for whom there was no room on the vessel.

WALL COLLAPSES AT BIG STORE

Serious Accident at Leitzinger
Brothers' Establishment

THE COMMUNITY STARTLED

The Wall Topples Outward and Brick And Other Material Fall Into Excavation for New Building—None of the Goods Damaged and Nobody Injured.

Shortly before 10 o'clock Wednesday evening people living in the central part of the city were startled by a roaring sound resembling the noise made by a large lot of snow sliding from a roof. An investigation proved that the noise had been made by the collapse of the rear wall of the annex to the Leitzinger store, the brick wall falling with a crash into the deep excavation which had been about completed in preparation for the erection of the new addition to the store building.

A Complete Wreck.

The wall is a complete wreck, only small portions of the wall at the upper corner remaining, brick, timbers and other materials falling into the excavation.

The wall fell outward and the shelving behind it toppling inward, so that none of the goods in that part of the store were damaged or lost. In falling the wall broke a water main in the well, and in a short time nearly two feet of water had risen in the excavation. This helped to weaken the sides of the hole.

Big Girder Falls.

One of the big girders on the first floor, deprived of its support, fell to the floor. In daytime the space in which this girder fell is generally occupied by a number of people, and had the accident taken place in daytime several persons would undoubtedly have been killed or badly hurt. The annex is only two stories high and when the wall fell the rear of this part of the store was fully exposed to view from the alley.

Had Been In Store.

Ed Leitzinger, senior member of the firm, had been in the store in the evening after the usual closing time. He was in the basement not much more than ten minutes prior to the collapse of the wall, leaving for his home in his car. He had hardly reached his home and put the car away until he was told of the disaster. Had he been in the basement when the wall fell he might have been seriously injured.

Cause of Accident.

The ground in which the well had been made is part of an old river bottom, composed principally of sandy loam. It is supposed that the workmen had dug too close to the building and the support of the wall had been weakened and the foundation gradually gave way, letting the well down.

It was fortunate that the wall fell at night, for if the accident had taken place in daytime workmen would have been in the well and some of them would have been caught by the debris.

A Costly Accident.

To repair the damage done to the building will cost considerable money. Workmen were early on the ground this morning putting up supports to hold up the floors and roof, and Contractor Lukins is clearing away the debris which fills the well.

It will require several days to remove the brick and other material from the well and to get the excavation in shape for the concrete. Hundreds of citizens viewed the wrecked wall last night and today everybody expressing satisfaction that, although the loss is severe, no person was injured.

Ysaie's Lost "Strad."

Of fiddles lost, stolen or strayed the most notable instance within recent times is the disappearance of the violin belonging to the great player Ysaie. It was a Stradivarius, made in 1732, and one of the violins shown in the loan collection of musical instruments at South Kensington in 1885. It was the practice of Ysaie, as of every other great player, to carry with him two violins, so that in case of accident he might have one to fall back upon. The stolen one was left unattended in the artist's room below the orchestra. It vanished, and in consequence of the loss and cry that resulted the instrument has never come to light again. Nor can the possessor of such a violin bring it to light while the present generation of experts is alive, for infallibly it would be recognized.—St. James' Gazette.

¶ The primary election will be held Tuesday, September 16th.

¶ There will be two separate tickets to be voted at the primaries - the non-partisan judiciary ticket and the partisan ballot on which candidates for county, borough and township offices will have their names.

¶ If a voter is enrolled he can vote both tickets, but if he is not enrolled he can vote only the non-partisan judge ballot.

¶ Candidates for the judiciary are not identified by party titles, hence the voter is not voting against his own party by voting for any of the judicial candidates, no matter who that candidate may be.

¶ Voting for a candidate for judge does not bind the voter to anything more than his act at the primaries, and does not affect his standing as a Washington, Republican or Democratic voter.

For these reasons while the work of a Judge in the license court may not be long or arduous, yet he owes to the people a great duty. It is at this time, if at any time, that he should be their champion and their defender. The test of whether he is fair to the people in the license court is not that some of the hotels or hotelkeepers in this county have been improved, but rather whether the people of this county have been protected and their interests and the interests of their homes preserved and the law enforced. A Judge may say the Brooks Law authorizes him to grant a license and permit the sale of liquor. That same law, however, provides that for any violation of the Brooks Law a license may be revoked by that same Judge, or if a rule made by a Judge is violated that Judge may revoke that license. The Brooks Law also prohibits the sale of liquor to men of known intemperate habits or men visibly affected by intoxicating drinks or the furnishing of liquor to boys under 21 years of age. You know and I know both by observation and experience, but worse than this Judge Smith knows that there is not a hotel in this town or in the county that is not violating either one or all of these laws and Judge Smith could revoke their licenses for such violations. Judge Smith made many rules when he first went on the bench with the supposed intention to at least regulate the sale of liquor. How many of those rules are in force today. For example, he made a rule that liquor could not be sold by the bottle. What about that rule now? There is not a hotel in the county that is not selling liquor by the bottle. He made a rule that politics could not be discussed in the bar-room, yet in the bar-rooms of this county you can hear some of his very best men boosting his campaign. He could revoke the licenses of any of these innkeepers for a violation of any of his rules. I am not a reformer, nor ambitious for reputation, but I do have sufficient character and insight to see the rottenness of a campaign that will wheedle a highly reputable man, who is not informed correctly, either by experience or observation of the actual conditions of the license court and liquor traffic of the county and so far mislead him into writing an article for publication not only defending but commending the conduct of a Judge when that

AMERICAN TOURISTS INJURED.

Mrs. Beverly Duer One of Motorists Who Fell Over Precipice.

Turin, Italy, Sept. 4.—The American tourists who were injured when their automobile fell over a precipice, near Little San Bernard, were Mrs. Beverly Duer of New York and Mrs. Smith, whose full name could not be ascertained.

The two women were at first said to be mortally hurt, but they rallied somewhat in the San Bernard hospital. Mrs. Smith, however, is still in a grave condition. Beverly Duer, Jr., and another man in the party were not injured, although stunned by the shock.

Mrs. Duer left New York for Europe on June 3 on board the Kronprinz Wilhelm. The party had been staying at Chamonix, France.

Yuan Shih Kai to Resign.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 4.—Yuan Shih Kai, provisional president of the Chinese republic, issued a decree announcing his intention of resigning office immediately after peace shall have been restored in that country, according to a telegram from Mukden.

Army and Navy to Play in New York.

Washington, Sept. 4.—It was arranged at a conference between Secretary Daniels, Assistant Secretary Breckinridge and the athletic directors of West Point and Annapolis that the army and navy football game shall be played at the Polo grounds, in New York, on Nov. 20.

A SKELETON IN THE CLOSET.

Tragic Story of the Origin of the Familiar Expression.

"A skeleton in the cupboard" is a familiar expression which has a tragic origin. The story is that a certain widow in England had a son in India, but owing to his failing health his mother became very anxious for his return. One day she received a letter from him containing the strange request that she should find some one who had no cure or trouble and ask her to make six shirts for him.

Anxious to accede to his wishes, the mother hunted long and finally found a lady who apparently fulfilled the condition. The lady listened in silence to the request and then invited the widow into her bedroom, and there she opened a cupboard, which contained a human skeleton.

"Madam," she said, "I endeavor to keep my trouble to myself, but every night my husband compels me to show that skeleton, which was once his rival, whom he killed in a duel many years ago. Think you that I am happy?"

Then the mother wrote to her son of the fruitless errand, and his reply was: "I knew when I gave you the commission that every one had his case, and you, mother, must have yours. Know, then, that I am condemned to death and can never return to England. Mother, mother, there is a skeleton in every house!"

VICE CONSUL FLEES FROM MEXICO CITY

Ingram Declares All Should
Heed Wilson's Warning.

San Francisco, Sept. 4.—More than half of the 120 passengers who arrived on the Pacific Mail liner City of Para from south coast ports were refugees from Mexico, who brought new stories of murder and pillage.

J. C. Ingram, who was United States vice consul at La Paz, arrived with his family. He said that, while there had been no fighting at La Paz, conditions were unsettled and Americans should heed President Wilson's warning and get out as quickly as they could obtain transportation.

A majority of the refugees who were interviewed expressed the belief that intervention would mean massacres of Americans forced to remain in Mexico. They contradicted reports that a wave of patriotism and adherence to Mexico was sweeping over the country.

When the City of Para sailed from Mazatlan a week ago it had to leave behind more than 100 Americans for whom there was no room on the vessel.

He was clerk of the territorial legislature which met in Shawnee county in 1857, assistant United States district attorney in 1858, reporter of the supreme court in 1859, member of the legislature in 1864 and 1875 and judge of the district court of Shawnee county in 1882.

Clearfield district, Clearfield, Oct. 7.

Good evening! How do you like
your teacher?

A COOL WELCOME.

Is there no feeling of brotherhood
among motorists? Do the auto owners
of one town look with suspicion upon those from other towns? What explanation can be made relative to
the coolness of the reception the Altoona motorists were given on their run to Clearfield Wednesday? Several scores of the best people of the railroad city came to this city for
the purpose of enjoying an outing and
partaking of the boasted hospitality
of the people of Clearfield, and when these Altoona motorists reached town
they found not a single local autoist
to welcome them.

This neglect may have resulted from
a misunderstanding on the part of Clearfield motorists as to the time of
arrival of the Altoona people, but did it? We do not like to think that auto owners of Clearfield, who
are so liberal with their dust when
out for a spin, refrained from talking part in welcoming the visitors
from the fear that it would cost something to entertain the guests. We would also be sorry to learn that it
was through lack of energy on part of the local speeders that they failed to do the honors to the Altoona motorists. We prefer to think that the Clearfield motorists mistaid their engagement memo or forgot the date of the run.

Those were pretty nice people who
journeyed to Clearfield from Blair
county to see Clearfield and
meet her people. What they thought
of the town itself can be guessed, but
what they thought and said of the
frigid reception they got wouldn't
be printed in this paper at ten dollars
a line.

Clearfield motorists are conservative, which means that they can see
nothing lovable or commendatory in
people except when they look in their
mirrors. Conservatism wears off gradually, and when the Altoona club motors to this city in 1937 they will be received with much more warmth
than was noticeable on Wednesday.

HUNTER'S LICENSES.

Extracts from the new act of assembly anent hunters licenses, printed
in this paper Wednesday, will give
the nitmuds of Clearfield county
some of the trials and tribulations
which await them when the season
for killing game opens. The procuring
of a license and the wearing of a tag
of identification are but beginnings
of hunter's ordeal. To get license
the hunter must tell whether he is
black or white, how tall he is and
a few other things which are required
in order that men of Pa. Sackett's build may not be mistaken for one of Ashley Thorpe's avadavoids.

When a party of two or three hundred hunters start out from Clearfield
next month, decorated with tags
neatly numbered, there will be a crowd
of citizens at the lower bridge to jeer
and revile them. As they tramp
through the woods with the numbers
conspicuously tacked to their coat
sleeves they will no doubt feel like
 inmates of those state institutions
in which names are forgotten and
numbers are used to designate the

occupants of the iron-barred rooms.
But hunters should not complain.
The legislature might have made it
much more unpleasant for them. The
law might have required that each
hunter should wear a tag ten feet by
twelve feet, painted or printed in red
on a white surface. It might have demanded that the hunter should tell
more of his private affairs than the
act now does—Whether or not he
is divorced from his wife; whether
or not he is fond of scrapple; whether
or not he enjoys visits from his mother-in-law; whether or not he stays
out late at night, and other information which would have been useful
in identifying him should he fall a victim to some careless gun toter.
The hunter ought to be glad he gets
off so easily.

The earnest women who are attending the annual convention of the Clearfield county W. C. T. U. are deserving of a hearing from the public.

Parents and teachers in Clearfield
should get together and solve such
problems as come before them.

Another week almost past and no
war with Mexico. Are the jingoists
hedging?

The Pennsylvania Motor association's state convention, to have been
held at Harrisburg was postponed
until September 18th. The association will plan to boost the fifty
million dollar bond issue, but it is likely to have heard sledging, judging from statements of farmers. If the association were to persuade all
motorists to run their machines in a
careful manner when on the high-
ways the farmers would gladly vote
in favor of the bond issue.

If you are not in the judgeship fight
you might as well be buried out in the Gum swamp.

Campaigns of education should be
carried on every day of the year
in counties where the voters are unable to understand plain and simple provisions of the election laws.

Judges in various parts of the state
have declared the non-partisan primary law constitutional, and voters
are now assured that they will not
lose their votes if they cast their ballots at the primaries for non-partisan candidates for judge.

OSCEOLA MILLS.

Labor day in Osceola found a great many strangers in town. All places of business were closed except meat markets, hotels and barber shop. Our correspondent has been requested to announce through
this paper that hereafter the other
barber shops will also be open on holidays.

The band under direction of Prof.
Samuel Oldham, discoursed some very
nice music on Labor day, much to the gratification of the many strangers.

An automobile ran over a small
Italian lad on Saturday morning,
which is evidence that council is very dilatatory in enforcing the speed law.
They (council) will be up against a damage suit the first thing they know.

Wonder if the two damsels from
near town found husbands on Labor
day, as they had their ad out in the shape of a long streamer over their shoulders.

The firemen were called out last Friday night at 12 o'clock by the
tooting of the engine at the round house. A dwelling occupied by Joe Resconsky was on fire; loss small.

Thomas Kelly, of New York accompanied his wife home Monday, who
had been visiting her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Brick-
ley, the past four weeks.

Hirsh, the assistant supervisor has been transferred to Wilmington, Del.
and will be succeeded here by a
Mr. Duke, of Tyrone.

Osceola was the mecca for candidates Monday. Guppy, Crago, Mc-Closky and Mitchell were seen circulating through the large crowd which
was enjoying itself by blowing tin
horns, throwing confetti, etc.
Harry McCoy, a well young man
died on Friday of pneumonia. Home
leaves to mourn his loss untimely
death two sisters, three brothers, his mother and wife and young son. The funeral was held Sunday, services at the home. Interment was made in Umbria cemetery.

THAW LOSES HIS FIGHT IN CANADA

Writ Granted Permitting Immediate Deportation.

REAL FIGHT IN VERMONT.

Prisoner Realized That His Battle
Was Nearly Over and Was Much De-
pressed—Case of Chauffeur Thomp-
son Postponed For Another Week.
Auto Dash to New York Planned.

Sherbrooke, Que., Sept. 4.—The ha-
bens corpus writ in the Thaw case has been sustained. This is a defeat for Thaw. It was planned to reject him
from the Sherbrooke jail, and immigration officials were prepared to arrest
him for deportation.

New York officials were ready to take Thaw in custody as soon as he crossed the line and entered the United States. The fight will now be transferred to Vermont, where the fugitive
will fight extradition, unless he is immediately brought to New York state.

"Educated" Roger Thompson, chauff-
eur for Thaw, must linger in Sher-
brooke at least another week under $500 bail before he stands trial on the double charge of having violated the Dominion immigration laws by crossing the border "by stealth" and in so doing assisting an undesirable (Thaw)
to enter Canada.

His case came before Magistrate Mu-reux, and with the consent of both sides was put over. Thompson's lawyers, in reality Thaw's lawyers, are
in the meantime collecting data to
prove Thompson's claim that he was born in Toronto and was never naturalized in the United States. With
this established he will be subject to
a $500 fine or to three months' imprisonment, but could not be deported.

Roger's chief desire now is to get back to Broadway, but he can't so long
as an indictment hangs over him
charging him with conspiring with others to liberate Thaw.

Decision on Thaw's Writ.

Thaw expects to be thrust out of his
haven, the Sherbrooke jail, by the decision and is packing up his personal effects preparatory to departure.

He looks forward to the real fight
for liberty in Vermont, despite the fact
that Former District Attorney William
Travers Jerome hopes to whisk him
across that state in an automobile and
land him back in Matteawan without
giving him a chance to claim whatever legal rights he might have in Vermont.

The prisoner is more depressed than
he has been at any time since his arrival in Canada. The statement by the special representative of the premier
of Quebec, Sir Lomer Gouin, that "the
scandal must be ended" has knocked
the props from Thaw's hope of delay
or victory in the Dominion.

Taft Heads Bar Association.

Montreal, Sept. 4.—Ex-President Willam H. Taft was elected president of the American Bar association for the coming year.

London, Sept. 4.—General Felix Diaz started for Berlin, where he says he intends to remain some time.

the catastrophe. The inquiry in behalf of the government will be rigid.

ing the annual convention of the Clearfield county W. C. T. U. are deserving of a hearing from the public.

Parents and teachers in Clearfield
should get together and solve such
problems as come before them.

Another week almost past and no
war with Mexico. Are the jingoists
hedging?

The Pennsylvania Motor association's state convention, to have been
held at Harrisburg was postponed
until September 18th. The association will plan to boost the fifty
million dollar bond issue, but it is likely to have heard sledging, judging
from statements of farmers. If the association were to persuade all
motorists to run their machines in a
careful manner when on the high-
ways the farmers would gladly vote
in favor of the bond issue.

If you are not in the judgeship fight
you might as well be buried out in the Gum swamp.

Campaigns of education should be
carried on every day of the year
in counties where the voters are unable to understand plain and simple provisions of the election laws.

Judges in various parts of the state
have declared the non-partisan primary law constitutional, and voters
are now assured that they will not
lose their votes if they cast their
 ballots at the primaries for non-partisan candidates for judge.

OSCEOLA MILLS.

Labor day in Osceola found a great many strangers in town. All places of business were closed except meat markets, hotels and barber shop. Our correspondent has been requested to announce through
this paper that hereafter the other
barber shops will also be open on holidays.

The band under direction of Prof.
Samuel Oldham, discoursed some very
nice music on Labor day, much to the
gratification of the many strangers.

An automobile ran over a small
Italian lad on Saturday morning,
which is evidence that council is very dilatatory in enforcing the speed law.
They (council) will be up against a damage suit the first thing they
know.

Wonder if the two damsels from
near town found husbands on Labor
day, as they had their ad out in the shape of a long streamer over their shoulders.

The firemen were called out last Friday night at 12 o'clock by the
tooting of the engine at the round house. A dwelling occupied by Joe Resconsky was on fire; loss small.

Thomas Kelly, of New York accompanied his wife home Monday, who
had been visiting her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Brick-
ley, the past four weeks.

Hirsh, the assistant supervisor has been transferred to Wilmington, Del.
and will be succeeded here by a
Mr. Duke, of Tyrone.

Osceola was the mecca for candidates Monday. Guppy, Crago, Mc-Closky and Mitchell were seen circulating through the large crowd which
was enjoying itself by blowing tin
horns, throwing confetti, etc.

er German military aviator, a non-commissioned officer named Kahl, died

THAW LOSES HIS FIGHT IN CANADA

Writ Granted Permitting Immediate Deportation.

REAL FIGHT IN VERMONT.

Prisoner Realized That His Battle
Was Nearly Over and Was Much De-
pressed—Case of Chauffeur Thomp-
son Postponed For Another Week.
Auto Dash to New York Planned.

Sherbrooke, Que., Sept. 4.—The ha-
bens corpus writ in the Thaw case has been sustained. This is a defeat for Thaw. It was planned to reject him
from the Sherbrooke jail, and immigration officials were prepared to arrest
him for deportation.

New York officials were ready to take Thaw in custody as soon as he crossed the line and entered the United States. The fight will now be transferred to Vermont, where the fugitive
will fight extradition, unless he is immediately brought to New York state.

"Educated" Roger Thompson, chauff-
eur for Thaw, must linger in Sher-
brooke at least another week under $500 bail before he stands trial on the double charge of having violated the Dominion immigration laws by crossing the border "by stealth" and in so doing assisting an undesirable (Thaw)
to enter Canada.

His case came before Magistrate Mu-
reux, and with the consent of both sides was put over. Thompson's lawyers, in reality Thaw's lawyers, are
in the meantime collecting data to
prove Thompson's claim that he was born in Toronto and was never naturalized in the United States. With
this established he will be subject to
a $500 fine or to three months' imprisonment, but could not be deported.

Roger's chief desire now is to get back to Broadway, but he can't so long
as an indictment hangs over him
charging him with conspiring with others to liberate Thaw.

Decision on Thaw's Writ.

Thaw expects to be thrust out of his
haven, the Sherbrooke jail, by the decision and is packing up his personal effects preparatory to departure.

He looks forward to the real fight
for liberty in Vermont, despite the fact
that Former District Attorney William
Travers Jerome hopes to whisk him
across that state in an automobile and
land him back in Matteawan without
giving him a chance to claim whatever legal rights he might have in Vermont.

The prisoner is more depressed than
he has been at any time since his arrival in Canada. The statement by the special representative of the premier
of Quebec, Sir Lomer Gouin, that "the
scandal must be ended" has knocked
the props from Thaw's hope of delay
or victory in the Dominion.

Judge has both publicly and privately acquiesced and permitted the unjust and corrupt sale of liquor in this county and when he had and has the power to at once stop it. A Judge should have at least moral courage to enforce the law.

Do you think this is moral courage? The records of this county show that Judge Smith has granted licenses to men who had been put in jail for violating the License Law. But more than this when Judge Smith made his Bottle Rule the representative people of this county went before him and showed a most deplorable condition as the result of the wholesale traffic of liquor.

He then and there made a solemn promise to those people that if a petition was presented to him he would wipe out all the wholesalers of this county.

The reason for this promise must have been because of the evil produced by the wholesale of liquor, yet when these people later appeared with their petition because of some technicality he refused to revoke any of the wholesale licenses. There was sufficient evidence before him and he would have been justified and authorized under the law of this State to have wiped out every wholesale liquor license in the county.

Do you think he was either fair or true? If he has not been fair in this will be fair in other things?

There are a great many wrongs committed by a Judge that those outside of court cannot discover because they do not become a matter of record. There is some record from which we can get some facts and learn rightly the conduct of Judge Smith.

Judge Smith has tried less cases and less difficult cases than did any other former Judge of this county. The expense to the county has been greater during his administration than that of any other Judge in proportion to the number and character of cases tried.

There are more cases appealed to Higher Courts under his administration than under the ten years administration of any other Judge of this county in proportion to the number of cases tried.

He has suffered more reversals by the Higher Courts than any other Judge of this county in proportion to the number of cases appealed. He has not only been many times reversed but the Higher Courts have been obliged to go as far as to severely rebuke his conduct in certain cases.

There are a number of lawyers of long practice at this bar of recognized ability who have been tyrannized over by him and have been subjected to such indignities by him that they will no longer appear in his court and are obliged to send their clients to lawyers of particular favor with the court.

He has been and will be an extravagant and expensive Judge. Judge Smith was a strong advocate for destroying our present Court House and building a new one at the expense of about $1,000,000 or more to this county, he even went so far as to present this matter before one of our Grand Juries and had one of his favorite lawyers make a big speech in favor of it.

The new Court House Bug has been permitted to sleep during this campaign, if there is a re-election that Bug will get such a jab in the ribs that it will never close an eyelash until the people of this county are forced to build Judge Smith a New Roost in a certain more desirable part of town, best known to him and a few. He is an advocate of high taxes and of destroying and building bridges.

The other candidates for this office are certainly men of some ability and some integrity. They have at least about as much of both of these qualities as Judge Smith had when he went on the bench, and if he can acquire such a supposed wonderful talent by reason of his ten years experience, there ought to be an equal opportunity for one of these other men. If there were no other candidates or if these other candidates were men without ability and without integrity then there might be some reason for Judge Smith's re-election, possibly even in the face of a solemn promise made by him and which he permitted others to make for him that he would not seek a second term.

I have tried to relate a few facts that the people may know the real truth, there are other facts that I can and will relate if necessary. I have one question to ask the voter and one word of caution. Have you been given one good reason why Judge Smith should be re-elected? Decide for yourself and draw your own conclusions.

AMUSEMENTS

"A Butterfly on the Wheel"

"A Butterfly on the Wheel", with Miss Laura Burt, fresh from its triumph in New York, where it has played since last November, will be one of the notable attractions to be sent to this city during the coming season.

It tells the story of a wife who, believing herself to be neglected, flirts with another man with the result that she is sued for a divorce. The big scene in the play shows the court room with the wife on the witness stand. This is said to be one of the most dramatic incidents ever depicted. The examination proves too much for the "butterfly" who in the end swoons. The play has been praised by hundreds of well known people, many of whom voluntarily wrote testimonials to Mr. Walter. The New Opera House to 12th St. Seats now selling.

The Common Law.

"The Common Law," adapted from Robert W. Chambers' sensational novel, makes a particular appeal to women. The story is of fascinating interest to the feminine sex especially notwithstanding that the scenes and incidents are pertaining to a man's world. It is a forcible indictment against marriage conventions, which the author counteracts in a clever and masterful way. "The Common Law" comes to the New Opera House on Monday night next. MURRAY ON JUDICIARY.

Judge has both publicly and privately acquiesced and permitted the unjust and corrupt sale of liquor in this county and when he had and has the power to at once stop it. A Judge should have at least moral courage to enforce the law.

Do you think this is moral courage? The records of this county show that Judge Smith has ganted licenses to men who had been put in jail for violating the License Law. But more than this when Judge Smith made his Bottle Rule the representative people of this county went before him and showed a most deplorable condition as the result of the wholesale traffic of liquor.

He then and there made a solemn promise to those people that if a petition was presented to him he would wipe out all the wholesalers of this county.

The reason for this promise must have been because of the evil produced by the wholesale of liquor, yet when these people later appeared with their petition because of some technicality he refused to revoke any of the wholesale licenses. There was sufficient evidence before him and he would have been justified and authorized under the law of this State to have wiped out every wholesale liquor license in the county.

Do you think he was either fair or true? If he has not been fair in this will be fair in other things?

There are a great many wrongs committed by a Judge that those outside of court cannot discover because they do not become a matter of record. There is some record from which we can get some facts and learn rightly the conduct of Judge Smith. Judge Smith has tried less cases and less difficult cases than did any other former Judge of this county.

The expense to the county has been greater during his administration than that of any other Judge in proportion to the number and character of cases tried. There are more cases appealed to Higher Courts under his administration than under the ten years administration of any other Judge of this county in proportion to the number of cases tried.

He has suffered more reversals by the Higher Courts than any other Judge of this county in proportion to the number of cases appealed. He has not only been many times reversed but the Higher Courts have been obliged to go as far as to severely rebuke his conduct in certain cases. There are a number of lawyers of long practice at this bar of recognized ability who have been tyrannized over by him and have been subjected to such indignities by him that they will no longer appear in his court and are obliged to send their clients to lawyers of particular favor with the court.

He has been and will be an extravagant and expensive Judge. Judge Smith was a strong advocate for destroying our present Court House and building a new one at the expense of about $1,000,000 or more to this county, he even went so far as to present this matter before one of our Grand Juries and had one of his favorite lawyers make a big speech in favor of it. The new Court House Bug has been permitted to sleep during this campaign.

If there is a re-election that Bug will get such a jab in the ribs that it will never close an eyelash until the people of this county are forced to build Judge Smith a New Roost in a certain more desirable part of town, best known to him and a few. He is an advocate of high taxes and of destroying and building bridges.

The other candidates for this office are certainly men of some ability and some integrity. They have at least about as much of both of these qualities as Judge Smith had when he went on the bench, and if he can acquire such a supposed wonderful talent by reason of his ten years experience, there ought to be an equal opportunity for one of these other men. If there were no other candidates or if these other candidates were men without ability and without integrity then there might be some reason for Judge Smith's re-election, possibly even in the face of a solemn promise made by him and which he permitted others to make for him that he would not seek a second term.

I have tried to relate a few facts that the people may know the real truth, there are other facts that I can and will relate if necessary. I have one question to ask the voter and one word of caution. Have you been given one good reason why Judge Smith should be re-elected? Decide for yourself and draw your own conclusions.

"A Butterfly on the Wheel", with Miss Laura Burt, fresh from its triumph in New York, where it has played since last November, will be one of the notable attractions to be sent to this city during the coming season.

It tells the story of a wife who, believing herself to be neglected, flirts with another man with the result that she is sued for a divorce. The big scene in the play shows the court room with the wife on the witness stand. This is said to be one of the most dramatic incidents ever depicted. The examination proves too much for the "butterfly" who in the end swoons. The play has been praised by hundreds of well known people, many of whom voluntarily wrote testimonials to Mr. Walter. The Common Law.

"The Common Law," adapted from Robert W. Chambers' sensational novel, makes a particular appeal to women. The story is of fascinating interest to the feminine sex especially notwithstanding that the scenes and incidents are pertaining to a man's world. It is a forcible indictment against marriage conventions, which the author counteracts in a clever and masterful way. "The Common Law" comes to the New Opera House on Monday night next. DEATH LIST NOW 21.

Wreckage Burned In Face of Orders of Interstate Commerce Commission Resumption of Examination of Engineers and Trainmen of White Mountain and Bar Harbor Expresses Coroner's Inquest—Federal Inquiry to Follow Soon.

Coroner Mix announced the inquest would be held in secret. Preliminary hearings, confined to secret at the railroad offices, drew of both sides were examined. Chief Inspector H. K. B. Inup of the interstate commerce commission arrived in New Haven, deploring the railroad company's burning the wreckage.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 4. The crash after the railway wreck on the New York, New Haven and Hartford road between here and Wallingford found the death list standing at twenty-one and the hospital list of injured at seventeen, the trainmen under detention by the coroner's order and the machinery for county, state and federal investigations in motion.

Coroner Mix and the chief engineer of the public utilities commission of Connecticut, Mr. Elwell, resumed the investigation jointly with the railroad company. August B. Miller, engineer of the first section of the White Mountain express, told more of the circumstances under which his train crashed into the standing Bar Harbor express. Elbert A. Robertson, his fireman, Bruce B. Adams, conductor of the Bar Harbor train, and Charles Henry Murray, the flagman sent back to prevent a rear-end collision, were also under examination.

What these men testified to reached the public by way of the press agent for the New Haven road. The hearing was held in the office of General Manager Bardo. The coroner had nothing to say at its conclusion and gave orders that the witnesses were not to be interviewed. Mr. Elwell was equally reticent. The trainmen refused to talk, but a statement purporting to be a synopsis of their testimony was prepared and issued by the railroad company.

The Railroad Version.
"Testimony of men in charge of the train" reads this statement, "shows plainly that the equipment, appliances and signals of the railroad were in first class condition."

Murray, the flagman according to this statement, was sent back to flag the following train when the Bar Harbor train came to a stop in front of the red bullseye in danger signal 23 at Tolles Rest. In conformance with the rules, the engineer, Wands, started his train again after stopping it and passed the danger signal at slow speed. Murray was recalled by a blast from the locomotive. The conductor, Adams, stopped the train to wait for him after it had cleared the danger signal by perhaps fifty feet.

Running back through the heavy fog, Murray heard the oncoming White Mountain express and placed two tor-
